GIVING HEALTH

SKYLINE NEWS

Dear Friends,

At Skyline, we take a hands-on approach to patient care. We recognize the importance of teamwork and believe great results can be achieved when we work together.

What makes a health care team successful?

One of the most important aspects of teamwork is focus, and we are focused on you. Skyline's physicians and staff have aligned themselves with our mission and vision, and have one goal in mind: to make Skyline the best place for you and your family to receive care.

We continue to seek ways to enrich our services and extend support to the growing communities we serve. Recent examples include:

Skyline Medical Clinic

Skyline Medical Clinic opened in October, adding Family Medicine, as well as Ear, Nose and Throat care to our already established services. Our goal is to provide additional health care options for patients, and make it easier for you and your family to establish lifelong care. We know how important it is to have health care available close to home, and hope you'll decide – when referred for services – to keep your care local to our community. This can be done by using services provided by Skyline Hospital rather than driving to another city or state to receive care. (see page 5)

Emergency Department Physicians

In our constant effort to improve the patient experience and to provide the highest quality of care, we have partnered with Northwest Emergency Solutions, an emergency physician group, to staff our Emergency Department. This change took place on November 1 and we are thrilled to have the new emergency medicine physicians as a part of the Skyline team. (see page 4)

Skyline Expansion and Renovation

The Skyline Foundation, which is the fundraising arm of the hospital, recently launched a $2M campaign to expand and renovate our Emergency Department, reconfigure the main entrance, and replace our boilers and HVAC system. We are not only excited to observe the expansion of our services, but know it's important to improve our facilities in order to support the health and wellness needs of our community. (see page 6-7)

As you can see, we are dedicated to making our health care organization the best it can be. In all we do, our focus remains on our patients. We are grateful for the trust you place in us and for choosing Skyline Hospital as your health care provider of choice.

Your ER

Better - Faster - Stronger

When you need help the most, we're here for you. Whether you've had an accident or are seriously ill, Skyline Hospital's Emergency Department is ready for you 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

In Skyline's continued effort to provide the best and highest-quality of care, it has partnered with Northwest Emergency Solutions to manage and help staff its Emergency Department. This change brings emergency medicine board certified physicians Mahinda Ratnayake, M.D.; Gus Faller, M.D.; and Andy Miller, M.D.; to Skyline's Emergency Department. This group combined with Skyline's clinicians and services, provide the most comprehensive emergency care available in this area.

"Providing better, faster and stronger care with the right resources is our team's primary focus," said Robb Kimmes, Skyline Hospital chief executive officer. "Having the expertise of these physicians - who only specialize in emergency medicine - will improve patient outcomes, reduce readmissions and enhance the patient experience.

Every Emergency Department can be a challenging and stressful place to work, and the Skyline Hospital Emergency Department is no exception. But this highly skilled team of board certified physicians, registered nurses, advanced mid-level providers and other specially trained staff meet the challenges and exceed expectations every day. The result is a community resource patients have come to rely on for their health and well-being.

"Like any work environment, people make the difference and the dedicated Emergency Department staff at Skyline are truly amazing," continued Kimmes. "Compassionate and extremely competent, their patient dedication is second to none."

GETTING DONNA BACK ON HER FEET

When White Salmon Council Woman, Donna Heimke stumbled while exiting her vehicle outside the courthouse, she fell forward, landing on her back. “I was hopeful everything was okay, but I soon realized something was very wrong,” said Heimke.

As her pain increased and she was no longer able to stand, she was transferred by ambulance to Skyline Hospital.

“During our time in the Emergency Department we received all of the necessary medical procedures, but what impressed us the most was the amount of caring attention given to my wife,” explains Dave Heimke, Donna’s husband.

Heimke’s accident resulted in a broken femur in two places. After having orthopedic surgery and spending three days in acute care, she was transferred to Skyline Hospital’s Transitional Care Program to begin the healing process.

Transitional care is a program which allows smaller, rural hospitals to open up their beds to provide inpatient care to those patients – like Heimke – who no longer qualify for acute care, but who are not quite ready to return home due to needing services such as physical or occupational therapy, wound care and IV or respiratory therapies. Often, it means those patients can receive the care they need closer to home, and for Heimke – with her established local roots – this was vital.

“It made me feel good to be in my hometown. It took a load off my husband and meant the kids didn’t have to travel 100 miles to come and see me,” said Heimke. “Everyone was just wonderful. I don’t think I could have received better care anywhere.”

When asked about her care at Skyline, Heimke said, “From the first person who took care of me to the last, each and every one was constantly responsive to my every need. I never felt I was imposing, and things were always done in good cheer and with a smile. Not only was I allowed to have my dog Essi visit, but they went out of their way to set up my bible study group to meet in the activities room so I could keep some semblance of normalcy even while in the hospital. Truly remarkable!

“In addition to regaining my health, I’ve made some wonderful friends,” smiled Heimke. “Skyline is a very valuable asset to our community and we can’t thank the staff enough for the tremendous, high-level care they provided. My stay helped prepare me to return to my everyday life and I am proud to say I went home both physically and emotionally stronger.”

"It made me feel good to be in my hometown."

IN SUPPORT OF OUR COMMUNITY

Outside its hospital doors, Skyline is helping to build an expansion of health and wellness through our ever-growing family of community partners. Standing with area businesses and community leaders, our message and our mission is spreading throughout our communities and beyond—giving more and more people access to resources for living healthier, happier lives.

CARING FOR OUR NEIGHBORS

The Skyline Foundation was thrilled to donate $25,000 – and join our community – to support those families impacted by the Underwood Fruit Company fire. The funds will be used toward health care needs.

“When the request was made to support our neighbors at Underwood Fruit Company, there wasn’t a board member who hesitated,” said Elizabeth Vaivoda, Skyline Foundation executive director. “It’s humbling to be part of an organization that gives back to our communities so freely and believes when we come together we can make a difference. I know I speak for the board, when I say ‘our hearts are full.’”

KEEPING INSITU HEALTHY!

With the flu season in full force, Insitu leaders wanted to ensure their staff stayed protected. Toward this health effort, Skyline Medical Clinic recently partnered with Insitu providing an on-site flu shot clinic. More than 130 Insitu staff members took advantage of the clinic’s convenience and received the vaccination – preparing them for the influenza season.

“An onsite flu clinic is a workplace solution designed to make vaccination as simple as possible,” said Debi Budnick, Skyline’s community wellness coordinator. “Getting a vaccine early in the flu season is the easiest, most effective way to stay flu-free. Skyline was happy to offer this service and looks forward to partnering with Insitu for future health care needs.”

Leslie Naramore, Washington Gorge Action Programs executive director, accepts Skyline Foundation’s $25,000 donation from Elizabeth Vaivoda, Skyline Foundation executive director. This donation, which is distributed through WGAP, will assist those families affected by the Underwood Fruit Company Fire.

All of us at Skyline Hospital truly believe in our mission of providing an exceptional level of health and well-being in our community. The Skyline Foundation embraces the responsibility of raising the funds to help our hospital fulfill its mission. We celebrate the partnerships that have led to creating stronger and healthier communities.

Because of the generosity of donors – like you – our caring and highly trained physicians, nurses and other health care providers have improved patient experiences, provided essential services, saved lives and positively impacted the health of our Gorge communities through education and outreach programs.

We hope you'll consider a tax-deductible gift to Skyline Foundation. To make a donation, simply return the enclosed envelope or give electronically by visiting www.skylinefoundation.org.
